Mark 16:9-11 (NKJV)

9 Now when He rose early on the first day of the week, He appeared first to Mary Magdalene, out of whom He had cast seven demons. 10 She went and told those who had been with Him, as they mourned and wept. 11 And when they heard that He was alive and had been seen by her, they did not believe.

Godly Women Exemplify God's Word: Godly Witness

What do you think when you hear “Be a witness”? I believe the word “witnessing” has been saturated in the religious world. We have some who call themselves “Jehovah’s Witness”. Some carry on the daily mission of “witnessing to others”. Others confirm their faith by “witnessing”. We need a clear and concise definition of the word. A witness is “one who has personal knowledge of something; one that gives evidence”.

There is a big difference between “witnessing for the Lord” and “witnessing of the Lord”. There is one godly woman who stands tall as a witness of the Lord. She was the first one Jesus appeared to after His resurrection. She doesn’t need convincing from a preacher, teacher, or bible scholar of the death and resurrection of Jesus. She doesn’t need to be convicted by what the Scriptures say. She was there and lived it. Mary Magdalene was a strong follower and believer of Christ.

This wasn’t always the case with her. She had a dark past. She was tormented by seven demons (Mark 16:9). Can you imagine the physical and mental suffering she endured? She was beyond the help of any man or woman. She needed the Great Physician. Christ delivered her from the agony of her possession. Mary’s devotion was unwavering afterwards to the Lord. She was there when He died, and she was there when He was raised from the dead. She is a godly witness of the Lord.

We can speak of how God has been good to us. We can share the good news and how it’s transformed us. All of this could be categorized as “witnessing for the Lord”. However, no one today saw Him in earthly form. Yes, there are many witnesses for the Lord. There are few witnesses of the Lord. Mary Magdalene is a godly witness of the Lord.

In Him,

Josh Barnett
